

Performing a Self-Evaluation

At times, your supervisor might ask you to evaluate your performance. When your supervisor wants you to evaluate yourself, it shows in bold font on the evaluations page. If the template lets you see or change the notes, you can see the question, category, and evaluation level notes.

You can also start a self-evaluation by clicking Evaluate as follows:

- With media: Dashboard > Interaction Scorecard > Examples > select the media to evaluate

To turn on Examples, use the Management Console. If you need more help, ask your system administrator.
- Without media: Evaluations grid.

What is the difference between a self-evaluation a supervisor initiates and a self-evaluation an agent initiates?

Supervisor-initiated	Agent-initiated

The evaluation is included in reporting. The evaluation is not included in reporting.

To perform a self-evaluation:

4. Complete the questions for the selected category in the Category grid:

- If a hint has been provided for a question, a Hint link displays next to it. Click Hint (and attachments if any) to view the hint for the question.
- Questions may have default answers, which you can change.
- Some of your answers may cause failure of the current category or even the entire evaluation. You receive a warning message if this situation arises.
- You can also create a note for certain responses you give.
- The score initially displays as Score: 0/0 unless the template has default answers. Default answers are taken into account from the time the evaluation form is opened. As you complete the self-evaluation, the scores automatically update. Depending on how the form was created, you may or may not see updates to the weighted score.

5. You can create a note for the selected category in the Notes for <category name> box.

6. Select the next category by either:

- Clicking Next: <category name>.
- Selecting the category in the Categories box.

7. You can write notes for a category up to 10,000 characters. Click the icon to add or change the text in the notes.

8. Complete the above steps for the remaining categories.

9. If a coaching is assigned to you, you need to review the notes and confirm your understanding.

To acknowledge coaching assigned to you from the evaluation form:

1. Click Coaching on the right lower side of the evaluation form.
 2. Review the coaching notes and activities assigned. Check for any required actions. If a link is provided, open it and complete the coaching.
 3. Select the I have reviewed this Coaching data checkbox. You can add any notes about the coaching data, up to 1000 characters.
 4. Click OK.
10. If you click Save and Close before publish, the Time to Publish message displays. The time you take to evaluate your work keeps adding up until it's published. To count only the time you spend editing and not the saved draft time, uncheck the Add Draft mode time in Time to Publish box under Settings. The Time to Publish message is displayed only when the Add Draft mode time in Time to Publish checkbox is selected. The change in the checkbox selection does not change the time to publish calculation method for the evaluations that are complete or are in progress.
11. Click Publish. An entry for the published self-evaluation is displayed in the grid in the My Evaluations tab for your supervisor, in addition to the Evaluations Portal grid. The Publish button is enabled after you have completed all required questions in the evaluation form. Depending on how your system is configured, you can subsequently edit your self-evaluation for some specified time. Once that time has passed, and if the evaluator has published the self-evaluation, you can view the evaluator's data for the form.
